ABOUT

Dayyaan Dockrat is a commercially driven financial professional and entrepreneur with experience across private capital, investment markets and Shariah-compliant finance.

With formal education in investment principles and Shariah finance, he brings a dual perspective that combines financial fundamentals, risk management and commercial opportunity with the principles of Islamic finance.

His approach is grounded in disciplined due diligence and a long-term view of value creation, with particular interests in private equity, Islamic finance and the development of sophisticated Shariah-compliant investment solutions.

Beyond financial markets, Dayyaan's entrepreneurial experience has given him practical insight into how businesses operate, compete and create sustainable value. He is passionate about improving financial understanding, encouraging responsible wealth creation and expanding access to credible Shariah-compliant financial solutions.

He continues to deepen his expertise across investments, private capital, Islamic finance, technology and entrepreneurship, with the ambition of contributing to the evolution of Shariah-compliant finance and creating meaningful, lasting value.

Wealth is an amanah; its true value lies not only in what we build, but in how we earn it, invest it and use it to benefit others
